Trousdale VanBuren Warren Wayne White Williamson Wilson GENERAL: Neither the Editor nor the Middle Tennessee Genealogical Society accepts responsibility for accuracy of material. All materials submitted become property of the Society.

SUBMITTING ARTICLES FOR PUBLICATION: Please do. We'd like to see Bible Records, Family Histories, County Records, Cemetery Records, "how-to" articles of general interest, historical anecdotes--any useful or interesting tidbits happened upon while researching that other members may never see. Material should be limited to a published length of 5 pages.

Please make sure hand writing is legible or the document is typed. If you are writing with a word processing program on your computer and can export to ASCII, a computer disk and hard copy is the easiest way for the editor to deal with material. If you happen to use WordPerfect 5.0 a simple disk copy or backup will work fine.

Please include documentation and, in the case of Bible records, written permission from the owner of the Bible. In addition to your name and address we'd appreciate your including your phone number. A final note--if you've got something you just can't quite, but can almost, pull together we'll be happy to work with you on a final edit.

ASK US: Specific research questions and problems will be discussed as space permits in the quarterly.

QUERIES: Will be included in order of receipt as space permits.

BOOK REVIEWS: Books or unique source material available for a fee should be sent directly to Mrs. Shirley Wilson, Book Review Editor, 106 Leeward Point, Hendersonville, TN 37075. All materials become property of the book review editor to be distributed as appropriate.

Editor's Thoughts

First things first. RENEWAL DUES ARE PAYABLE AS OF JUNE 1. Decisions were made at the February meeting. We had a choice of raising the dues to cover the increase in costs of producing and mailing the quarterly or drastically cutting it back in size. The board agreed on the following:

Paid by June 30th the dues are $15. After that date $18. Since the major portion of the dues goes to the production and mailing of the quarterly, individual and family memberships are the same price, each receiving one issue.

Another decision -- Meetings are popular with our members. The society will hold BI-MONTHLY meetings instead of quarterly, beginning after our November seminar. On the third Saturday afternoon as usual, January, March, etc. Mark your calendar now for November -- the annual seminar will be held November 9th, the second Saturday, to accommodate our speaker--we've got another good one coming. Some of you missed the last workshop because Lloyd Bockstruck was not as widely known as we expected, though we heard NOTHING but praise on the program. Don't make that mistake this year. Jo White Linn will speak; we'll tell you more about her and the program in the next issue.

If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery our member Dorothy Johnson, editor of Valley Leaves, the North Alabama Quarterly of the Tennessee Valley Genealogical Society, ought to be quite puffed up by our lifting one idea after another from her--layout, use of borders of Bible records, etc. Dot has been more than generous with her advice and it's all been good.

We don't have a formal policy of naming contributing editors for these issues but mention should be made of some people who make our job much easier. Gale Bamman and Betsy Ragsdale provide us with ready to use Supreme Court records. A computer disk appears for each quarterly. Shirley Wilson seems never tiring in her enthusiasm for producing useful articles. And Dorothy Potter, in addition to coming up with wonderful short pieces she's collected, actually hands over large articles "camera ready." And credit needs to go to the growing number of members willing to contribute family records and sketches which round out the journal so nicely. Our thanks.

Other organizations are starting to send us literature on their publications and upcoming events. Look for this information on the inside back cover.

And first things last. LET'S GET THOSE RENEWALS IN ON TIME, save the secretary a mountain of work. Get your genealogy friends interested in the society. No one just joining would guess how young this organization is; we've grown a lot in a short time. BJS

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

The morning program for May 18 will have Tim Burgess speaking on THE HISTORY OF BURIAL MARKERS FOR UNION AND CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS. He will explain the history of the various markers to the current time, the process one goes through to order a marker, and will have available the forms to be used in ordering markers. Time is 10:30 at the Nashville Public Library Auditorium.

Afterwards you will have time for lunch on your own, perhaps at Church Street Center, before our regular general membership meeting at 1:00 p.m. The afternoon session will feature Byron Sistler--we look forward to Byron's sharing his wealth of expertise with us.

Prior to the program we will have a business meeting. Two items need our consideration: passage of the new revisions of the Bylaws which Shirley Wilson has so ably chaired, and election of new officers. A slate was presented by Hugh Logan, Chair of the nominating committee, at the last meeting. Nominations can always be made from the floor.

Tables will be set up in the corridors for collection of dues for the society and also for display of new books and publications of the various members.

Because you showed such interest and enthusiasm for having meetings more frequently, plans are being made to have them bi-monthly. This would begin in 1992 with meetings being held in January, March, May, July, September and November.

Also because of your positive response to genealogical classes such as the group sessions held at the Natchez Trace Genealogical Society, investigations are underway to see if such is feasible here. Plans for having Dr. Brian Trainor of the Ulster Historical Foundation to speak on the Irish Heritage have been considered as a future possibility but this fall is not the appropriate time since our schedule is already committed. We will stay in touch with him.

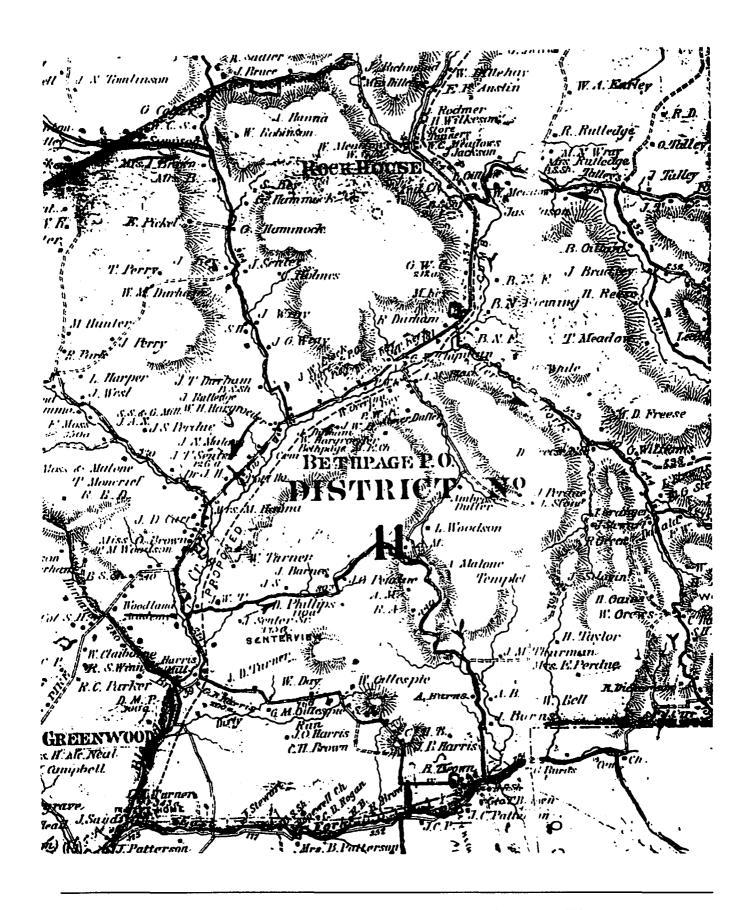

FORTHCOMING EVENTS include the following conferences: Samford University Institute of Genealogy and Historical Research June 16-21, 1991, Birmingham, AL; National Genealogical Society 1991 Conference in the States, May 29 - June 1, 1991, Portland, OR; 1991 FGS Conference August 15-17, 1991, Ft. Wayne, IN.

The question has arisen recently concerning taping of the programs. The board requests that no tape recording be done without the expressed consent of the speaker. Certainly our speakers deserve that courtesy and some may not wish to be taped since they are planning publication at a later date.

Speaking of tapes, the sessions at the National Genealogical Conference are taped and sold. Recently the Nashville Room has purchased a handful of these tapes relating to Tennessee Research.

Lastly, I would be remiss if I did not thank all the people with whom I have worked for the past two years. Both the board and the general membership have been supportive in our various endeavors. I am grateful. Thank you for the opportunity to serve as your president.

Maps - A Useful Genealogical Tool

Shirley Wilson, G.C., Used by Permission

The use of maps as a genealogical tool is often overlooked by those in search of their ancestors. The importance of maps cannot be overstated. Pinpointing the area where your ancestors lived is critical in determining where the records relating to their existence will be found. It can also be important in determining their migration pattern.

Maps are available in all sizes, shapes and include all areas of the earth's surface. Maps have three basic functions - to locate, to identify and to inventory.

Before using a map, it is extremely important to examine the Legend on the map. This is usually found in small print in a box at the side or bottom of the map and it explains the identifying marks on the map. Look for an arrow, identifying north on the map, as some older maps were not prepared with north at the top of the map. Most maps will also provide the scale, which determines the ratio at which the map was drawn.

This article is not intended to present a complete listing of all of the maps of interest to the genealogist working in Tennessee records, but is designed to emphasize the importance of maps and bring to your attention a few of the more helpful and lesser known maps which might aid the genealogist. The emphasis in this article will be on maps relating to Tennessee which are available at the Tennessee State Library and Archives.

It is important to remember that although your ancestor may have lived in a given county his entire life, it does not necessarily follow that all of his records will be found in that county's courthouse. In some large counties, the courthouse of an adjacent county may have been closer to the home of your ancestor than the one located in his own county. The terrain could also be a factor which might cause your ancestor to journey to a courthouse in another county to obtain a marriage license or record other information. In some cases, it might have been a greater distance to the courthouse in an adjacent county, but easier than traveling down a mountain or crossing a creek or river.

You may also find that your ancestor lived on the border of two counties or even two states. Whenever this occurs, the possibility exists for boundary changes. For a variety of reasons, your ancestor could have owned land and left valuable records in several counties, although he would normally only appear in the census records in one county. If you do not find the record you seek in your ancestor's known county of residence, the next place to look is in adjacent counties. The use of maps will enable you to identify those counties and determine which of them would be the most likely source of information.

From maps, you may also find that a creek, river, cemetery or a mountain pass was named after your ancestor. You may learn that a source of records, such as a cemetery or church was located near where your ancestor lived.

Locating the county of origin through census records and other statewide indexes is one of the first steps in determining which courthouse might contain the records on your family. Some census records will provide the Civil District, Ward, the nearest post office or, if you are fortunate, a city or village where your ancestor lived.

If you are fortunate enough to know the name of a city or village where your ancestors lived, these can usually be located on a standard state highway map. The U. S. Postal Service publishes directories of current post offices, listed alphabetically with a separate listing by state. Older versions of these postal directories are excellent sources for locating post offices that no longer exist.

If your ancestors were landowners in Tennessee, deeds sometimes provide a more precise location. Usually, at least a creek or a civil district can be ascertained through the use of deeds. The boundaries of Civil Districts in rural areas and Wards in large cities can often be determined through the use of old county maps and city directories. Many researchers are unaware that good maps exist for most areas of the United States. Once it is determined what type of map is needed and what area is to be included, the next step is to determine where they can purchased or utilized.

The Tennessee State Library and Archives has an excellent collection of published atlases and gazetteers from many areas. Their Tennessee map collection varies in time frame, detail and accuracy. Maps are available for some counties for many different years, while very few maps are available for other counties. Maps are also available for some cities, geographical areas and navigable waterways and lakes.

MAPS AVAILABLE AT THE TENNESSEE STATE LIBRARY & ARCHIVES

A 3×5 index to many of the maps available at the Tennessee State Library and Archives will be found in the Manuscript Room. This index includes the maps that were available in past years in the Library section of the facility. In general, these maps are indexed by the name of the area covered, with the first map listed being the earliest relating to that particular area. The time frame covered is from about 1760 to the present.

Of special interest is a collection of demographic maps of various counties in Tennessee. See illustration page 136 from Dist. 11, Sumner County. Most of these maps divide the county by civil district and include the names of landowners, creeks, rivers, churches, cemeteries and prominent landmarks. The time frame varies from 1871 to 1907. These maps are quite large in size and extremely detailed in nature, some scaled 1 1/4 inches to the mile. Insets on the maps provide even more detail on individual cities within the county, listing the names of home owners and businesses in the city. A list of these maps is included at the end of this article.

One fascinating map is the Map of Middle Tennessee (#2519) compiled by Edward Ruger under the direction of Col. W. E. Merrill. Although there is no date on the map, the staff has placed the date at about 1863. It includes most of Middle Tennessee. Some areas of the map have been completed in great detail with the names of property owners, creeks, fords, rivers, roads, bridle paths, fords, ferries, etc.

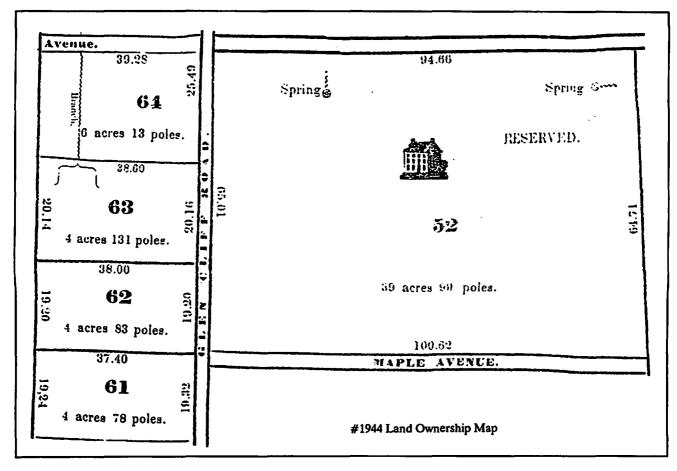

A similar map of the Civil War time period was prepared by Lt. Col. H. C. Wharton (#138). It is scaled 1/2 inch to a mile. Although not as detailed as the Merrill map, some inhabitants are shown on the map.

Geological survey maps can be obtained for most any area in the United States. These maps are commonly called "Topo" or topographical maps. While there are no landowners listed on these maps, they contain a vast amount of information helpful to the genealogist. For example, the locations and names of creeks, rivers, cemeteries, and churches are included on these exceptionally detailed maps. Buildings and houses are also shown. In addition, various characteristics of the terrain are included on these maps. Elevations are given, a helpful piece of information when attempting to determine the most logical route of migration. These maps are available primarily in two different scales - the 7 1/2 minute series which is 1:24,000 (one inch representing 2000 feet) and the 15 minute series which is 1:62,500 (or one inch representing nearly a mile). These maps are available for research at the Tennessee State Library and Archives for Tennessee only. The archives also possesses some of the earlier topographical maps, which are especially helpful to gene-See example p. 160 from Cheatham County.

Purchasing a topographical map is basically a two step process. Request a map index to the state of interest. Before ordering a map, determine from the map index the name of the desired map.

Maps Sales and Service, 1200 Lebanon Road, Nashville, TN 37210 stocks topographic maps for Tennessee and surrounding states and can normally provide fast service. Maps for other states may be ordered. Maps are currently priced at $2.50 per map and the index to them is provided free of charge. If you know the precise location that you want, you may call them at 615-242-3388 to order maps and bypass the index step.

Topographical maps can also be purchased for all states through the U. S. Geological Survey, 1200 South Eads Street, Arlington, VA 22022 or, for Tennessee, through Tennessee Division of Geology, Department of Conservation, 701 Broadway, Nashville, TN 37243-0445. Maps are currently priced at $2.75 and the index is $1.

A book entitled Place Names in Tennessee published by the Tennessee Division of Geology is a guide to the locations found on these topographical maps, arranged alphabetically by county.

Maps of individual counties can usually be purchased in the county of interest, often in the recorder of deeds or tax assessor's office. Two different sets of maps have been published for Tennessee in book form and are also available at nominal price through various commercial sources. These are Tennessee County Maps, which includes reproductions of current county road maps and Tennessee Atlas & Gazetteer, which is topographical maps. However, it should be noted that these topographical maps are scaled 1:150,000, so they are not nearly as detailed as the above mentioned maps.

Copies of most maps in the collection of the Tennessee State Library and Archives can be purchased. Xerox copies are available for small maps at minimal cost and graphic prints can be made of larger maps. Cost of the demographic maps ranges from $28 to $84. Inquiries should be directed to the Manuscript Room, Tennessee State Library and Archives, 403 7th Avenue North, Nashville, TN 37219. Please do not send money.

Plat and parcel maps showing land ownership are worthy of mention. In public land states, plat maps identify the owners of land in a county at a given time. Tennessee is a state land state and does not have plat maps of the type found in public land states. Although in some portions of Tennessee, particularly in the west, you will find townships, ranges and sections mentioned in deeds, it is often difficult to find maps which identify those legal boundaries. Even if you are able to locate such a map, land owners are usually not identified. One notable exception to this rule is the Ocoee and Mountain Districts of Tennessee. These maps are available at the Tennessee State Library and Archives and identify land owners in varying degrees.

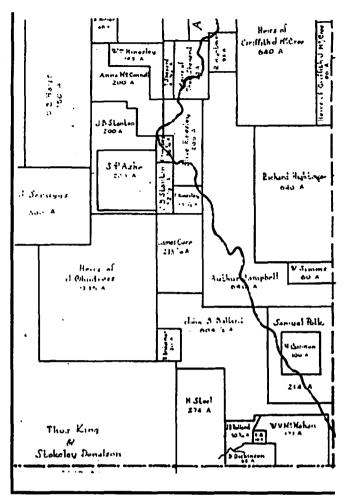

A typical land ownership map in Tennessee is map #1944 which identifies the parcels of land but does not identify owners of that land. See illustration at left.

Map #2548 for Haywood County is a rare exception. It was drawn in 1927 and identifies the original land owners for the entire county. See illustration above right.

Courthouses have current parcel maps on Tennessee land for taxing purposes, but these do not date from a time period that would be helpful to most genealogists.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS

In response to a question from Barb Sistler - Have you ever made a really exciting genealogical find through the use of maps?

#2548

Yes, on many occasions. Some years ago I was trying to locate all of the granddaughters of Henry Head of Sumner County in an attempt to identify Keziah Head who was born 14 January 1828 in Tennessee. Henry's son Tavenah Head migrated from Sumner County to Kentucky where he died about 1876. I visited the local courthouse and identified the land where Tavenah had lived. A map enabled me to pinpoint the location of the property. I drove out to see it and located a descendant, who provided me with a copy of family material from the Bible. Talk about highs and lows! My heart sang when I saw those names and birth dates and dropped with a thud when I realized that Keziah wasn't among them.

The following is a family sketch written by Elle White McClanahan after Dr. McClanahan's death in 1949, and contributed by Mrs. Gail M. Holman, granddaughter.

Dr. Albion Amzi McClanahan

Dr. Albion Amzi McClanahan was born July 17, 1860. The place of birth was a little house on the "lower eighty" in Graham Township, Jefferson County, Indiana. It was the year which saw the beginning of the Civil War, which soon was to take his father away from home and family. These war years were right hard for Grandma, left with the responsibilities of the farm, her only helper being Cyrus, the eldest son about twelve years old. In after years, when Grandpa would talk of experiences in "the service" she was not interested.

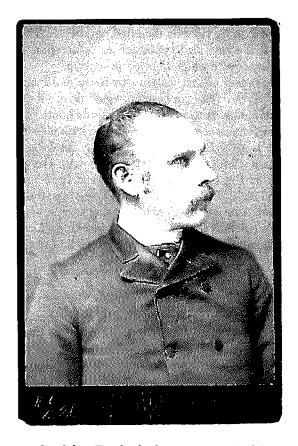

By hard work, economy and thrift they managed a good living on the rocky farm. Here "Amzy" grew up helping with chores, fishing in Walton's creek, which ran through the place, trapping rabbits etc. Also attending the little school house on the hill across the creek. When the boys were in their teens they were fortunate to have an outstanding teacher, Professor Blum who tried their abilities and encouraged them in getting an education. About this time they bought the "upper eighty" of Dudley Walton, and moved into the brick house, Grandma took care of Uncle Dudley the rest of his life.

Three McClanahan brothers, Harvey, George, and William lived on adjoining farms. Each one had two sons, near the same age, and all grew up together. Uncle George's sons, Hill and Russell and Harvey's two, Will and Amzy were especially chummy, and this brotherly regard continued as long as the quartette lived. They al had good singing voices, and their greatest delight was singing together. Their fathers were good singers and the boys were brought up singing together.

On visits to the old neighborhood the four delighted to hunt and fish together and to sing together. They are all gone now, but I imagine I can hear again their beautiful voices blended in exquisite harmony.

A. A. and Russell were inseparable and what one did the other did. They decided to try teaching school and in preparation attended Teachers Normal School in Lexington, Indiana. They came home for week-ends, and on Monday morning Grandma and Aunt Melissa would pack a box of food to last the week. I don't know what mode of transportation they had, whether they walked, or possibly rode the train to Teachers. But they got their certificate and began to teach.

A distant relative of Mother Mac's, Jilson Whitsitt often rode by in the evening to stay for supper, or perchance spend the night. He was a singing teacher. A. A. decided this might be a break for him so he asked Mr. Whitsitt to write out for him some lessons. This he did. Twelve lessons for a dollar, our young music teacher had only fifty cents. This he paid, and another fifty due. The next time Mr. Whitsitt came by and stopped for supper Amzy felt he must pay the debt. But he hadn't a cent. The following colloquy took place, "Pap I owe Jilson fifty cents and I think he wants his money, and I haven't got it, could you lend me a half dollar?" Pap could and did, and thus we came into possession of the coveted lessons. These same lessons were brought to Tennessee and were the basis of the singing schools here. I was accused of destroying them, of course I did not such thing knowingly. Anyway they are lost to posterity.

When the singing schools started they went together. They taught in the towns of southern Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. In Indiana they formed a friendship with a young dentist, Dr. Robert Care. Dr. Care later opened an office in Harrison, Ohio, and invited his friends to come to Harrison and teach singing. This he and Will did and had several classes within a radius of a few miles of Harrison, aided and abetted by Dr. Care.

It must have been his association with Dr. Care which gave him the idea of studying dentistry. As a beginning he spent a year in Madison, in the office of Dr. Wall. At the end of the year the young dentist joined fortune with another embryo dentist, Dr. Frank Ferrell. The two acquired a buggy and gave Father McClanahan a note for $75.00 to pay for a horse. They hitched old Tom to the buggy, loaded their belongings, and set out for Tennessee, the land of opportunity.

During the war Grandpa had followed General Thomas through Tennessee. As I before intimated, he liked to talk of all he had seen, heard, and experienced. He told of Nashville, Gallatin, Murfreesboro and Chattanooga, until they became household words. Our adventurers decided to make Gallatin their first port of call. Their first stop was in Louisville to purchase a few forceps and other instruments with which to begin practicing.

A trip of that distance by horse and buggy took several days. They young men would drive all day, and spend the night at some friendly roadside home. The first night in Tennessee was with Mr. and Mrs. Elias Armstrong on the L & N Pike. Mr. Armstrong had been an old fashioned school teacher in his younger days. His wife was Josephine Bigsbee an Aunt of Grip and Izzie True. Of course Uncle Elias was curious to know where the travellers came from, where they were going and on what business. When they told him they were seeking a location to practice dentistry, and had in mind to go first to Gallatin, he said, "Gentlemen," Cross Plains a few miles west of here is a fine town, and I suggest that you go and look it over, and to Cross Plains they went and remained.

After settling in Cross Plains Dr. McClanahan practiced dentistry and attended Vanderbilt University. He received his Doctor Dental Surgery Degree on July 20, 1889. On May 13, 1899 he received a Doctor Dental Surgery Degree from Northwestern University.

Dr. McClanahan married Miss Ella White on February 21, 1889. They had the following children:

Wilbur White McClanahan m. Iva Hardore Baggett
Nellie Gladys McClanahan d. an infant
Rev. Albion Amzi McClanahan, Jr. m. Mildred Trenary
Mary Eleanor McClanahan m. James C. Trefz
Emma Cornelia McClanahan m. (1) Rayburn Pitt

His living grandchildren are: Wilbur White McClanahan, Jr., Albert Baggett McClanahan, William Harvey McClanahan, Joe Harvey McClanahan, Jr., Ella White Bellflower, Gail M. Holman, and Jamie Trefz.

Many of our members will have known Mrs. Jean Durrett, dec'd., a professional researcher. She is responsible for Mrs. Holman's interest in genealogy. Gail wants any interested readers to know that Mrs. Durrett's collection of research is housed at the Gorham McBane Library in Springfield, TN.

Dr. McClanahan was a Stamp Collector for the Internal Revenue Service. See accompanying illustration of form, p. 143. This stamp was a tax levied on liquor and tobacco, originally collected to pay off debts from the Civil War.

---- NAGGING ----

It's a dirty job but someone has to do it.

For those of you who skip the editor's page, and may miss the note on the back cover --

This is the last issue of Middle Tennessee Genealogy for the 1990-91 year.

Renew now -- there's a form handy stapled in the center of this issue.

Think about it -- a lot of extra work and expense are involved in reminders and keeping track of late renewals. The board would much rather spend the time and money on basics that improve the quality of the society and the quarterly.

THE ORIGINAL SURVEYOR'S RECORD BOOK, 1836-1887. COFFEE COUNTY, TENNESSEE

by Dorothy Williams Potter

COFFEE COUNTY was formed in 1836 from portions of Franklin, Warren, and Bedford Counties. Entry applications were made as early as 1819 for land in what is now Coffee County. Many of these land entries were situated on larger, pre-existing grants which were never taken up e.g., the Blount Lands. Prior to 1836, the land was surveyed and recorded in the records of the respective older counties, but after that date, all the surveys were recorded in the Coffee County, Tennessee, Surveyor's Record Book, 1836-1887.

In 1976 permission was received from the county officials to make a full transcription of the original book. This was especially important, for this fragile and little-known volume had not been microfilmed and was in an assortment of pieces. One should note that there is microfilm of a Surveyor's Record Book in the Tennessee State Library and Archives. However, the entries herein will not coincide with this microfilmed version.

The disagreement arises because the book microfilmed prior to 1976 was actually a late 1880's copy of the original Surveyor's Book and it contained some serious errors. Hence, the original book was used for the compilation published in 1976 by the present

All of the surveyor's plats in the original manuscript were carefully drawn to the same exact size in the published book, and representative plats from that book are reproduced here.

Title to Vacant Land

The process of gaining title to vacant land went from the requested entry (1) to the warrant (2) which was given to the surveyor. He then took two chain carriers and made a survey (3) of the area by laying off the boundaries and drawing a scaled plat. Finally the deed (4) culminated the entire process.

The purpose of the entry was to determine if there was a previous claim to the property. If there was, then a caveat might be noted. One will note that there could also be a considerable lapse of time between entry and perfected deed.

Surveyors

The first Principal Surveyor in the present County of Coffee was John O. Brixey. The chain carriers that accompanied him on the surveying rounds were usually neighbors or family of the person for whom the land was being scouted. However, there were exceptions to this, e.g., for the month of April, 1837, Jarratt Gentry and William Thompson traveled with John O. Brixey as chain carriers on all the returned surveys for that period.

E. Keeling, a Deputy Surveyor of Bedford County in 1834, returned surveys during the years of 1836 through 1838 for the newly formed County as principal surveyor of Coffee County. Lecil Bobo had been designated a deputy surveyor, although his work con-

& Red bud sisted mainly of laying out his own land entries from 1836 through 1845. Another deputy surveyor was George W. Durley, who surveyed a few Warren County entries from 1837-1838. M. C. Cass, a Deputy Surveyor who primarily surveyed Bedford County, issued entries from 1818-1841. G. B. Alexander began surveying in 1839, while J. W. Anderson intermittently worked during the period of 1841-1854.

> Other men who also served as deputy surveyors during the busy years of 1836-1854 were Warren Waite, William M. Wallace, and Jonathan Webster. Jonathan Webster was a very large landholder in the County who, only through a very close vote in the State Legislature, lost having the county named for him in 1836.

Surveys

The following is a listing of the surveys for the years 1836 and 1837 only. These include the first two years of recording, and are given in the order of entry in the original Surveyor's book.

The initial before the entry number denotes from which county the entry was issued. However, one will note that some were not identified by county in the original book.

SARAH HENRIETTA GREEN MORTON

Daughter of Sherwood Martha Christmas Green

by Thomas M. Green

Sarah Henrietta Green was born in 1810 in Williamson County Tennessee. She married Solomon G. Morton in Nolensville, 22 September 1825. The 1840 Davidson Co. census lists two boys, ages 01-5 yrs and one girl, 5-10 yrs. The 1850 Davidson Co. TN census lists a son John H. age 18 yrs and a son Joseph E. age 2 yrs. A daughter, Mary J. age 17 yrs, is on the Williamson Co. census married to James T. Scales. Evidently one son died between 1840 and 1850. Living also in the household of Solomon H. Morton, age 47 yrs, in the 1850 census was his wife, Sarah H., age 41 yrs and John Morton, preacher, age 73 years, relationship unknown.

Solomon G. Morton died in May 1859. In his will, recorded in Rutherford County, he names his wife Sarah and three children, John H., Joseph E., Mary J. Scales, and a grand-daughter Cora Scales. He also names his brother-in-law James M. Green to be an advisor to his wife. His obituary was published in The Tennessee Baptist 18 June 1859.

Sarah Henrietta died 10 October 1883, in Nashville. She was living with her son Joseph and his family at this time. The Davidson Co. death record shows she was to be buried in Murfreesboro. There is an old Morton Cemetery located between Smyrna and Murfreesboro. It has been desecrated and there are only two stones left standing. One is that of "Joseph Morton, Born 1778, Died 1829" and the other for "James B. Morton, Lt. 4th Regt. Va. Militia, Revolution War, 1758-1808." About eighteen or more graves may have been there at one time. No record was found to prove who was buried in this Cemetery.

Joseph E. Morton was born in 1848, Davidson County. He married Francis (Fanny) King, daughter of Benjamin and Susan Matthews King 2 December 1868 in Davidson Co. To this marriage were born six children. They were Mattie Lou, b. 1869; Catherine, b. 1871; Percy, b. 1873; Solomon, b. April 1877; James, b. September 1883; and Addie, b. October 1886. Joseph died 19 February 1886 in Nashville. The Davidson Co. death record shows that he was buried in the "country." It might be assumed that this was in the Morton Cemetery in Murfreesboro where his parents were supposedly buried.

The 1910 census of Davidson County, Tennessee shows that Francis Morton was living with her daughter Addie (Adelaide) and her husband George R. Martin. They had two children, George E. age 1 year, and Mary C. age 5 months. The 1917 Nashville City Directory lists George R. and Addie Martin living at 310 McMillin Ave.

Francis is not listed in this Directory. She might have died by this time or be living with one of her other children. Further research of Davidson County marriage, death, birth and cemetery records might uncover information on the other children of Joseph Edward and Francis Morton since the 1910 census reveals that six of their children were still living.

John H. Morton was born in 1831 in Rutherford County and died in Dallas, Texas, July 18, 1887. He "read medicine" under the supervision of Dr. James T. Scales who married his sister Mary J. Morton. The 1870 and 1880 census names his wife as Mattie L., born in Virginia. No marriage record could be found in Tennessee. Dr. John H. Morton was instrumental in organizing the Dallas County Medical Society in 1884, and was elected the first President on 12 April 1884. Since there are no children listed on the 1870 or 1880 census with him, it must be assumed that he never had any unless they were born between 1880 and 1888.

Mary J. Morton was born in 1833 in Rutherford Co. Tennessee. She married Dr. James Turner Scales 3 December 1849 in Davidson Co. and moved to Williamson Co. where he was practicing medicine. On the 1850 census, her brother, John H., is listed with them as "reading medicine." James was the son of Joseph G. and Francis Webb Scales. He died 9 August 1854, leaving his wife Mary and a daughter Cora. Evidently they were living in Davidson Co. at this time since this is where his will was recorded and probated.

Mary J. Scales married Thomas J. Massey 21 March 1861, in Rutherford County. The 1880 Rutherford Co. census records Thomas J. Massey, Mary J. Massey, a son Morton Massey, a daughter Cora Scales, and his mother-in-law, Sarah H. Morton, living in the same household. Mary J. Massey Morton [sic] is listed as a widow in the 1880 census living with her brother John H. Morton and his wife Mattie L., living in Dallas, Texas. Evidently her husband Thomas J. and son Morton Massey had died. In a letter from Dr. John H. Morton to his cousin Joseph E. Green, written in 1881, he writes that his "sister has married again and living at Wootens Well near Bremond, Texas."

Cora L. Scales was born 20th May 1851, in Davidson Co. Tennessee. She married Amos W. Rankin 8 October 1872, in Rutherford Co. He was born 3 May 1848, the son of A. C. and Mary Powell Rankin in Rutherford County. Cora and Amos had five children: Amos Walter Rankin Jr.; J. W. Rankin; Cora Lee Rankin born June 1882; Mary Rankin born 1898; and Robert Thomas Rankin born 1888. The cemetery records of Spring Hill Cemetery in Nashville, Tennessee show Cora, Amos and three of the children buried there on Lot 55, Sec. "M." Cora died 11 June 1911, Amos died 6 August 1915, both in Nashville. Coralee Rankin Binsinger died 15 October 1970 in Louisville, Ky. She was survived by a daughter Sarah Wills of Daytona Beach, FL and a son, Robert Gibson of Nashville. Robert Thomas Rankin died 15 August 1946 in Cleveland, Tennessee. He was survived by his wife Elizabeth Shapard Rankin and two daughters, Rosemary Roberts and patricia Rankin. The grave marker for Mary Rankin Gibson Fetters shows only "1921 - 1969." Buried also on this lot is Donald J. Craig III. His relationship to the others could not be found.

No contact has been made with any of the descendants of Sarah H. Green Morton. All information for the above names, dates and places was found in Census Records from 1830 to 1910,, Cemetery Records, Newspaper Obituaries, Rutherford, Davidson and Williamson County marriage records, Davidson County death records, and Virginia Bowman's book Williamson County Historical Homes and Sites.

"WANTED." Anyone having knowledge of any Greens, Mortons, Masseys who are related or connected to any of the above—Thomas Green would appreciate your contacting him.

BOOK REVIEW by Shirley Wilson

Genealogical Deed Abstracts MECKLENBURG COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA Books 10-14. compiled by Herman W. Ferguson. Soft cover, 8 1/2 x 11, 250 pp. Order from: Herman Ferguson, 600 Chad Drive, Rocky Mount, NC 27803 $25.00 (NC residents add 5%).

Although the deed books abstracted cover the years 1778 to 1794, the earliest record is a grant dated 1757 and there are additional grants dated in the early 1800's. While the grants and deeds are primarily for land in Mecklenburg County, some of the grants were for land in Tennessee.

All pertinent material has been abstracted and each abstract assigned a number in this well organized and carefully prepared book. The index includes full names and places and references the abstract number, so that it is not necessary to search the entire page. Bold type has been used for numbers of important references (to grantees and grantors, etc.). To assist the reader in locating the land, the book includes a map, which shows the various creeks, churches and county boundaries.

Mr. Ferguson has created an outstanding book of abstracts. Worth every penny of its modest price if you have roots in or around Mecklenburg County, this book is a worthwhile purchase solely as a superior example of how to prepare and publish record abstracts.

JEAN/JEANS IN THE CIVIL WAR Lincoln County, Tennessee Confederates

by Royleta C. Malone

David JEAN, Jr. was a Pvt. in I Co 44th Tennessee Infantry, C.S.A.; later a Corporal in Co. A 44th Consolidated Infantry. He enlisted 7 Dec 1861. He was captured at Petersburg, Virginia 2 April 1865. As a prisoner of war he was sent to Fort Delaware. He took the oath of allegiance in May 1865, after the surrender and was released 7 May 1865. He received a Tennessee Confederate pension from Nov. 1905 until his death in 1919. David was born 19 Sep 1845 in Lincoln County, the son of David JEAN, Sr. He is buried in Lone Oak Cemetery in Lewisburg.

Joseph JEAN was a Pvt. in A Co 44th Consolidated Infantry, C.S.A. He enlisted 14 Nov. 1862. On 1 July 1864, he was sick at a hospital in Richmond, Virginia and died there soon after. A quartermaster's receipt listed $5.00 remaining with Joseph Jean on a register of effects of deceased soldiers. He is probably buried in Hollywood Cemetery in Richmond. His widow Catherine McClure JEAN received a Confederate pension from TN from 1906 until her death in 1912. Joseph JEAN was born in 1834, the son of David JEAN, Sr.

*Wyatt JEAN was a Pvt. in A Co 44th Consolidated Infantry, C.S.A. He enlisted 14 Nov. 1862, the same day as his brother Joseph JEAN. Wyatt served until July 1863. He was born 9 Sep. 1839 in Lincoln County, the son of David JEAN, Sr., died in Fannin County, Texas 1 May 1904, and is buried in the Dial Cemetery near Honey Grove.

Wiley JEAN enlisted 2 Dec 1862 as a Pvt. in Capt. A. L. Huggins' Light Artillery Company. He is listed as both Wiley JEAN and Wiley JEANS in "Tennesseans in the Civil War." He was in Freeman's Battery which served under General Nathan Bedford Forrest until the Battle of Chickamauga. Wiley JEAN was captured at Spring Hill, near Franklin, TN 10 Apr 1863, and contracted disease during prison in Louisville, Kentucky. He was paroled from there 10 May 1863. Wiley was born 1 Dec 1825 in Lincoln County and died there 18 July 1905. He was probably the son of David JEAN, Sr.

Another Wiley JEAN was a Pvt. in A Co of 41st Infantry. He was born 24 Oct 1837 and died 9 Apr 1911.

He is buried in the Kennedy-Thomison Cemetery in Lincoln County. He was probably Wiley H. Jean, the son of John JEAN and his wife Ann Shaw.

Uriah JEAN was also a Pvt. in A Co 41st Infantry. He enlisted 4 Nov 1861, was captured at Fort Donelson, TN, taken prisoner and sent to Camp Morton, Indiana in June 1862. He was exchanged and sent to Vicksburg, Miss. in Aug 1862. He became sick and died 1 Jan 1863 in a hospital at Grenada, Miss. Uriah was born in 1843 in Lincoln County, TN, the son of Francis Marion JEAN.

Thomas A. JEAN was a Pvt. in Co B 41st TN Infantry according to the official muster roll. He enlisted 1 Dec 1862 at Shelbyville, TN and was listed as sick at Jackson, Miss. 12 May 1863, but was present for muster 1 Jan 1864. According to his write-up in Goodspeed's "History of Lincoln County" "he served in the late war in Forrest's Escort, and was in many severe skirmishes. His principal duty was scouting, and during his entire service he was neither wounded nor captured. Thomas returned home in 1865 after an absence of three years." Thomas Asbury JEAN was born 26 Aug 1836 in Lincoln County, the son of John JEAN and Ann Shaw. He died 8 Oct 1916, and is buried in the Rose Hill Cemetery in Fayetteville.

Two brothers-in-law of both David JEAN, Sr. and Wyatt JEAN also served as Confederates in the Civil War: John David BRYANT and William James (Jim) BRYANT. They were the brothers of Elizabeth Bryant JEAN, Mrs. David Sr., and Susan Bryant JEAN, Mrs. Wyatt JEAN.

John D. BRYANT and William J. BRYANT both enlisted 7 Dec 1861, in Co A 44th TN Infantry. They were both captured at Chickamauga, Ga. 19 Sep 1863, and sent to Camp Douglas, Illinois. They were transferred to Point Lookout, Maryland 23 Mar 1865, where they both took the oath of allegiance in June of 1865, after the surrender. John D. BRYANT and William J. BRYANT's widow both received Confederate pensions from TN William J. died 31 Jan 1907, and John D. died 30 April 1926. They are both buried in the Flintville Cemetery in Lincoln County. They were the sons of William Robert BRYANT and Eliza HICKS.

John David BRYANT was still alive in 1922 and filled out the Confederate questionnaire with this information: "Shiloh was the first battle we were in on 6 April 1862. We gave the Yanks a good whipping the first day, but they gave it to us the next day, and we retreated from Shiloh back to Mississippi. Later we marched to Shelbyville, TN and from there we camped at Stones River near Murfreesboro until the battle took place the last day of 1862. There I had my right hand man by the name of Jack Fanning shot down and killed. Then we retreated back to Tullahoma, TN and stayed there the rest of the winter. I was at Decatur, TN when the Union soldiers burned the town. I went on the train to Camp Loudon, from there to Dalton, Georgia. Then we brought on the battle of Chickamauga, which I was captured in the first day's battle. I had my left hand man shot down there, and was captured in the little field near a spring. I got lost from the rest, and the Yank had me cut off from the rest. They took us to Chattanooga, and we boarded a train to Nashville. I was carried from there to Camp Douglas near Chicago. I was there in prison nearly two years."

Red Cross Announces Holocaust Victims Tracing Services

Tennesseans wishing to learn the fate of relatives who were interned in concentration and forced labor camps under the Third Reich can now have this information made available to them through the American Red Cross Holocaust and War Victims Tracing and information Center in Baltimore, Md.

The Baltimore center recently was opened following the receipt by the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) of newly released documentation of 400,000 names of people who died or were interned in Third Reich concentration camps.

The expansion of the Red Cross Tracing Services will provide tracing and information services for people who wish to know the fate of relatives or who need certification of incarceration, forced labor or death of family members.

In a gesture of cooperation unprecedented in the 45 years since World War II,, the Soviet Union opened its archives and shared with the Red Cross material recovered by the Soviet Army during the liberation of the camps at the close of World War II.

Included in the transfer are 46 Sterbebucher (Death Books) containing nearly 70,000 death certificates from the Auschwitz concentration camp. In addition, the Soviets have provided access to the names of 230,000 prisoners used for forced labor in various German firms and 200,000 names of victims in other camps, including Saschsenhausen, Gross Rosen and Buchenwald.

Persons in Tennessee wishing to learn the fate of family members should contact the Nashville Red Cross, where the appropriate inquiry forms may be completed. The request will then be sent to the American Red Cross Holocaust and War Victims Tracing and Information Center in Baltimore where it will be translated into German and forwarded to the International Tracing Service in Arolsen, West Germany which is a branch of the Central Agency of the International Committee of the Red Cross.

"We hope that the expansion of our tracing capability for victims of the Holocaust will bring closure to the pain felt by so many people who don't know what happened to members of their family, and we are happy to participate in this serve," said Christopher (Kit) Parker, chapter executive officer of the Nashville Red Cross.

"We want people in Tennessee to be aware of the availability of this important new information, so that they can utilize it in searching for the fate of family and friends," said Parker. "The search can take from one to two years because the process is a complex one. The need to be absolutely thorough will slow down the return on information, but interim reports will be provided to the person who filed the request."

For more information, contact the Nashville Red Cross (615)327-8407.

GENEALOGY AND GENIE®

by Martha Colburn

Have you ever wanted to talk to other Genealogists? Have you wanted to discuss common ancestors with distant cousins? How about asking an expert to help you through a particularly puzzling piece of research? Is it too long to wait until the next MTGS meeting for such an opportunity? Then check out the growing world of electronic communications.

With just your computer, a modem and telephone line, and a communications program, you can connect to a large computer system called GEnie[®]. GEnie has many areas, called Round Tables, where people gather to discuss common interests. There is one Round Table that specializes in just Genealogy.

This group of people includes professional genealogists, computer experts, support from the program manufacturers, experts in history and geography, and just plain folks. You can arrive at the Bulletin Board whenever it is convenient to you, and post your questions. You also can read all answers to everyone's previous questions. It is open to anyone with a computer and a GEnie account.

Ah-hah! Now it comes. Money rears its ugly head. Like most good things, it is not free, but has just recently gotten very inexpensive. To obtain a GEnie account, call Client Services at 800-638-9636. They will take your credit card number and open your account. It will take a day or two to get your user-id and password. They will charge you $4.95 a month, starting immediately.

Once you have received your GEnie user id, you can communicate with many of GEnie's bulletin boards, during non-prime time, for that $4.95 you are paying. These are called Star*Services. This includes the Genealogy bulletin board area. All you can stand for only $4.95 a month. There is a Nashville phone number for which there is no extra charge. The number in Clarksville costs an extra $2.00 an hour. Non-prime time is almost like the phone company: from 6PM to 8AM local time during the week, plus all day on weekends and holidays.

You can communicate with GEnie at any speed you want to set your modem for, without extra charges. Many bulletin boards charge extra for 2400 baud. GEnie does not.

Once on the Genealogical Round Table, you can select different areas, or categories to read. There are categories for New England, New York, The South (with Tennessee as a topic within that category), South America, Asia, and other areas. There are also categories for discussing computer applications in Genealogy, and help for different programs you might be using.

One category is set aside for posting queries for a family of particular interest to you. You also can browse through this listing to see if anyone is currently working on your favorite family. I have found one or two distant cousins.

You are more likely to get help if you look geographically. That is, if your family is from Chenango County, NY, to post your questions under the New York category. Others who are expert in that area will be reading your notes, and make suggestions of what to do next. Someone may even be living in Chenango Co., and offer to stop by the county seat and look up Uncle Charlie's will for you.

The GEnie manual is even on line, if you are a manual reader. If not, the whole system is menu-driven and you can access it that way. After you learn how it works, you can skip the menus and just issue commands.

GEnie has also put out a communications program, called Aladdin, that will allow you to navigate around GEnie and plan your on-line trips while you are off line. You can write your replies or questions, and then Aladdin will call up GEnie, and upload all that information. It will even gather all the data you tell it to, and save it for later reading.

To obtain Aladdin for your computer (IBM PC or Atari-ST), you will need to check into the Aladdin Bulletin Board, and download the program. This costs about $3.00 because this is not a Star*Service. The rate for non-Star*Services is $6.00 an hour and this download takes about half an hour.

Electronic mail is another service offered by GEnie. If you don't want to post your questions on the Bulletin Board for general reading, you can send mail to a specific individual. Mail is also a Star*Service and is included in the $4.95.

GEnie has many other services that I have not mentioned. All of the usual shopping, information, game and travel reservation systems are available.

GEnie, Aladdin, Star*Service are trademarks of General Electric Information Services.

Note: we have recently hooked into Prodigy, a similar but more expensive service. It has a vast genealogy bulletin board — it's impossible not to be impressed with what you can do with a computer and a modem. If you have the equipment and the time it really is a lot of fun and very informative. bjs

Dorothy Potter writes to us 17 February 1991, "In regard to a question concerning the loss of early Assembly records that was asked after the talk by Gale [Bamman] Saturday, I looked up some previous research that I had done pertaining to this puzzle. I thought it might be of interest to you and your readers."

Some Notes on the Destruction of Early Tennessee Legislative Papers

by Dorothy Williams Potter

Researchers have asked why many of the early Tennessee Assembly records are missing. Some of the following reasons may be of interest to readers, and their knowledge of the situation may save their time in searching for these records.

Early records in Tennessee met with accidental and intentional destruction, c.f.,

1812, Senate Journal

The Committee appointed to examine and destroy the useless papers in the Secretarys' ... office beg herewith to report that they have in part discharged that duty.¹

It was also noted that

... Unquestionably some of the legislative papers were lost in transit when the "seat of government" was moved from Knoxville to Kingston; from Kingston to Knoxville; from Knoxville to Nashville; from Nashville to Knoxville; from Knoxville to Murfreesboro; and finally from Murfreesboro to Nashville. Lack of filing facilities plus crowded quarters were unquestionably factors that contributed to the destruction of state papers... ²

Dr. White further stated

... it is conceivable that some of the future custodians of official documents regarded them also as 'useless papers' and accordingly consigned them to the pot-bellied stove or dump heap. Due to lack of historical perspective and to indifference, an 'innumerable company' of state historical documents of Tennessee have disappeared forever.³

In 1908, Dr. St. George Leakin Sioussat, writing in the American Historical Association Proceedings, gave information concerning the condition of the archives of the State at that time. As regarding the state of the original records, he gives this graphic account of shameful neglect.

The overcrowding of the office of the secretary of state led to the storing of the overflow in the west crypt of the capitol.

Here they lay piled in masses on the stone floors, among old paint barrels, ashes, and trash of every description, dirt, and grime. They were wet and rotting, and it was during this period that the janitor of the capitol burned up several cartloads because of the fact that they were 'wet and nasty and smelled bad.'4

SOCIETY OF THE CINCINNATI

by Silas Emmett Lucas, Jr.

The Society of the Cincinnati is the nation's oldest hereditary and patriotic organization, made up exclusively of descendants of the Officer Corps of George Washington's army. Founded on May 13, 1783 by American Officers of the Continental Army, the Cincinnati elected George Washington as its first president general and Alexander Hamilton as its second. Louis XVI was the Patron of the order in France. Currently, the Society of the Cincinnati consists of societies in the thirteen original states and France. Cincinnati, the city in Ohio, is named in honor of the society. The society is named in honor of Lucius Quintius Cincinnatus, the Roman who was called from his plow to defend his nation. He led the army against an invasion and promptly returned to his farm once he had defeated the enemy. George Washington and his companions thought they had acted in much the same way. The principles adopted by the Society of the Cincinnati and forming its basis are stated:

An incessant attention to preserve inviolate those exalted rights and liberties of human nature, for which they have fought and bled, and without which the high rank of a rational being is a curse instead of a blessing.

An unalterable determination to promote and cherish between the respective States that national honor so essentially necessary for their happiness and the future dignity of the American Empire.

To render permanent the cordial affection subsisting among the officers. This spirit will dictate brotherly kindness in all things and particularly extend to the most substantial acts of beneficence, according to the ability of the Society, towards those officers and their families who unfortunately may be under the necessity of receiving it.

These principles have continued to be the guiding purpose of the Society.

Membership in the Society is difficult. Most states allow only one member to represent each officer. Nephews (collateral descendants) are allowed to represent a qualifying ancestor should there be no direct descendants available.

Opposition to the Society of the Cincinnati developed early. Some perceived it as a threat to American ideals or as the seedbed of an American aristocracy.

Benjamin Franklin, Samuel Adams, Thomas Jefferson and John Adams were among the vocal opposition. In a relatively short time, however, we find both Franklin and John Adams elected to honorary membership in their respective states.

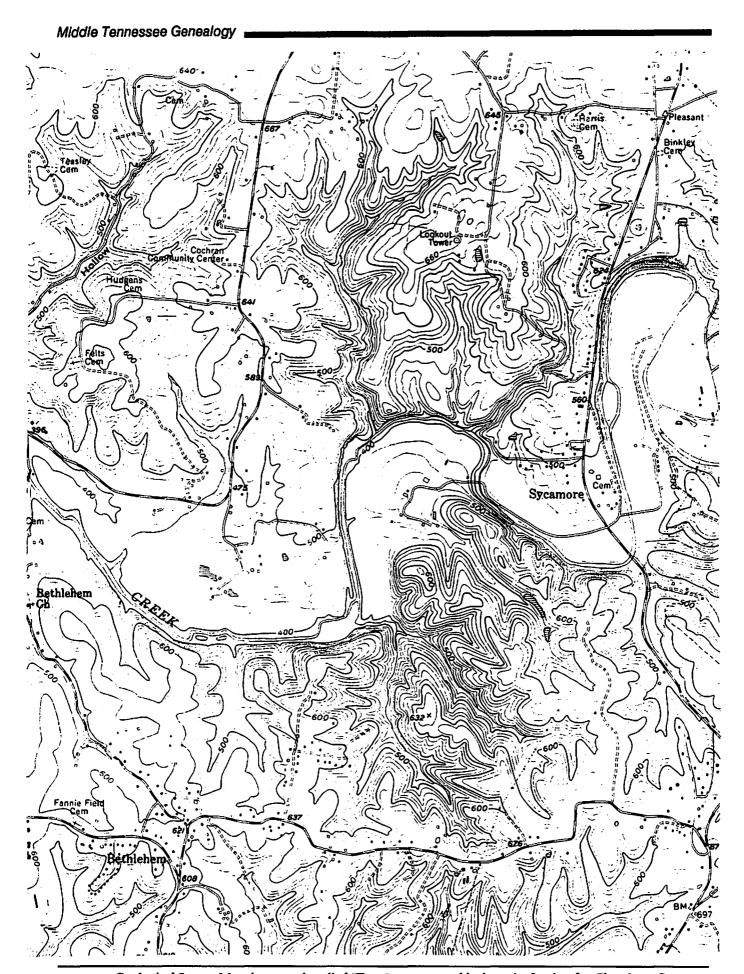

The most famous symbol of the Cincinnati is the Eagle of the Order elaborately set in diamonds and presented to General Washington in May 1784 at the first general meeting by Count d'Estaing, president of the Society in France. This jewel is considered as "appurtenant to the office of the President General," and each succeeding incumbent has so worn it.

The French-American link remains close. A favorite project of the Society is the French scholar program, whereby a recently graduated son of a member of the French Society is invited for a two-month United States tour, staying at the homes of American members all over the country.

The headquarters of the Society is Anderson House on Massachusetts Avenue in Washington, D.C., originally a private residence built about 1905 by Larz Anderson. In 1939, after member Anderson's death, his widow donated their home to the Society. Anderson House maintains "a National Museum for the custody and preservation of documents, relics, archives, especially those pertaining to the American Revolution, accessible to the public at reasonable hours." Among the unique items on view is the earliest known example of the Purple Heart. The United States Government also uses Anderson House for diplomatic receptions for visiting heads of state.

Over the years the Cincinnati has had many prominent individuals as hereditary and honorary members including sixteen U.S. presidents. Perhaps the Society's most distinguished hereditary member of the twentieth century was Winston Churchill. His maternal great-great-grandfather, Lieutenant Reuben Murray, had served in the Revolution. During his induction into the Society in 1952 he ironically observed: "I am in the interesting situation of having fought on both sides in the war between us and we."

Each state maintains a suite in Anderson House for use by members when visiting Washington. We were given a tour of the facilities last spring by Rev. Lucas, a member of the North Carolina Society, and can recommend it as a tourist stop -- most impressive. bjs

1856 CHEATHAM COUNTY TAX LIST

by Gregory G. Poole

This is the continuation of the combined 1856 tax list for Cheatham County. The first three districts are found in the winter 1991 issue. This will take you through District 8. Look for the completion of the list in the summer journal.

An asterisk before the name represents that the person paid a poll tax for the year, while an asterisk under the columns 'slaves' and 'value of slaves' means that the resident was a landowner, but owned no slaves.

WARNING:

GENEALOGY POX: Very contagious to adults.

SYMPTOMS: Continual complaint as to need for names, dates and places. Patient has blank expression, sometimes deaf to spouse and children. Has no taste for work of any kind, except feverishly looking through records at libraries and courthouses. Has compulsion to write letters. Swears at mailman when he doesn't leave mail. Frequents strange places like cemeteries, ruins, and remote desolate country areas. Makes secret night calls and hides phone bill from spouse. Mumbles to self. Has strange far-away look in his/her eyes. NO KNOWN CURE.

TREATMENT: Medication is useless. Disease is not fatal but gets progressively worse. Patient should attend Genealogy workshops, subscribe to Genealogy Magazines (AND BELONG TO MIDDLE TENNESSEE GENEALOGY SOCIETY). Patient should be given quiet corner in the house where he/she can be alone. The usual nature of this disease is the sicker the patient gets, the more he enjoys it.

We have lifted the following directly from Valley Leaves -- "ESWAU HUPPERDAY. Are you familiar with Eswau Hupperday which means "Line River" in the Cherokee language? It is a very fine quarterly published by the Broad River Genealogical Society. They cover the counties of North Carolina and South Carolina through which the Broad River runs. Many early North Alabama pioneers came from or through that area... Vol. 10, No. 1, March 1990 includes a chronological table of the Battles of the Civil War, a monumental, serialized compilation. This quarterly is a bargain for a $10 subscription and their address is: Broad River Genealogical Society, Inc., PO Box 2261, Shelby, North Carolina 28151-2261."
